dedicatio

ab uno disce omnes

Hoc anno libellum anni Doctori John Blakey dedicamus. Dr. Blakey magister mirabilis apud collegium Lenoir-Rhyne annos quinque et triginta erat. Ille quidem vir indole tam egregia est ut in memoria semper tenendus sit. Tempus multum atque laborem ad discipulos noscendos extra scholam degit. Exempli gratia, idem et uxor sua, Karla Blakey, cenam parvulam hebdomadalem (teatime) magistros discipulosque quoslibet apud se vocant. Illi praesertim placet coquere, itinera facere, et ingenium suum per poemata, carmina fabulasque exprimere. Doctor Blakey, qui velut rector unicus antiquarum linguarum studia curat, vitae et eruditionis amorem totum exhibet, quem discipulis suis per eximium et efficax docendi genus tradit. Latissimam scientiam de omnibus, ut videtur, rebus valde habet; id quod quotannis sermonibus Die Festo Marmotarum (Groundhog Day) ostendit. Ille etiam odio technologiae notus est; sed quamquam mores pristinas inprimis diligit, rerum tamen novarum tantum gaudium nuper invenit, ut raps lingua Latina cantatis et usu verbi "eugepae!" laetatur. Non fieri potest dubitare quin Doctor John Blakey omni civitati nostrae LR bona et salubria dederit. Speramus modo nos ei vitam tam beatam quam eum nobis attulisse. Gratias tibi maximas agimus, Doctor Blakey, pro omnibus beneficiis quae nobis dedisti.

eugepai!

I'm sure that Dr. Blakey wouldn't remember "Miss James" as much of a Latin scholar, but I remember him and his class with great fondness. He was patient and encouraging in his teaching, and told such interesting stories! And I guess you could say that he brought me and my husband (Gary Gaither, '77) together, as we met and became friends in Latin 101. I only wish our daughter, Kathryn, could have the opportunity to be in his class next semester. Couldn't you stay at least one more year, Doc?

Joanna James Gaither, '77

I was privileged to know Dr. Blakey early on his career. he was my Latin professor in the mid-70's. Not only was he a wonderful teacher, he was a friend. He and his wife were both very approachable and easy to get to know and are still the same way. My son, Brandon is in his class this year and he enjoys him very much. I was fortunate enough to be invited to a tea that Mrs. Blakey has for the students and it was so nice to get reacquainted with both of them.

SPRING 2007

While a May HACA WA has the advantage of being available to seniors at their graduation, it also carries an early March deadline, which means that April and May - invariably the most exciting and closely-packed months of the year - fall into the next year's book.

This opening section of the 100th HACA WA, then, is a review of last spring: from Spring Fling to Hickory Dickory Huck II, another championship year for Softball, a successful year for a very promising Baseball squad... and, of course, Honors Convocation (right), Baccalaureate, & Commencement.

To the Class of 07, this concludes our coverage of your Senior year.

To everybody else, welcome to the Centenary HACA WA.

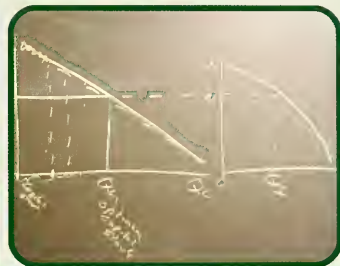

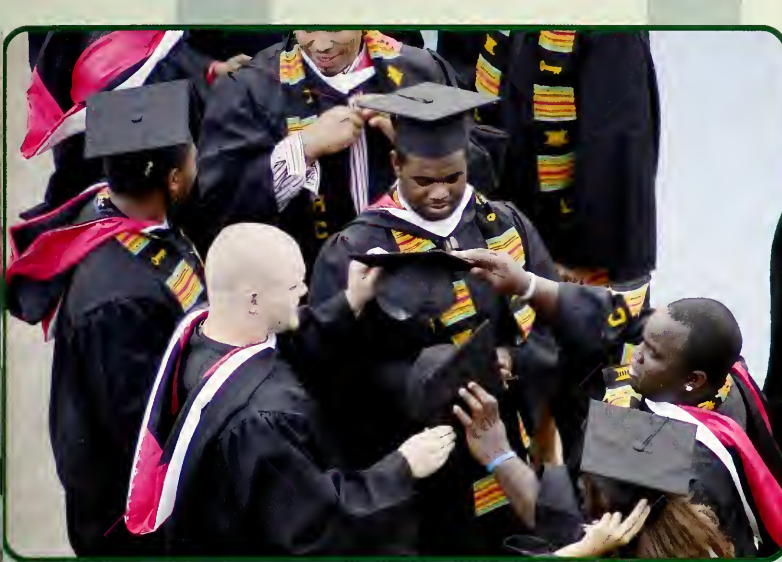

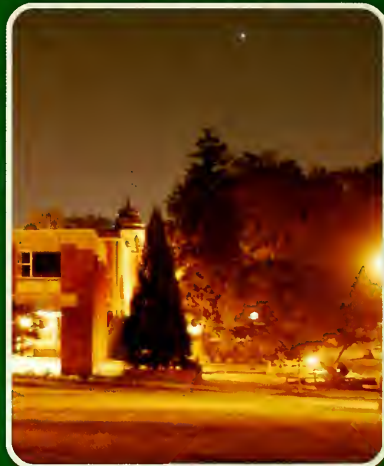

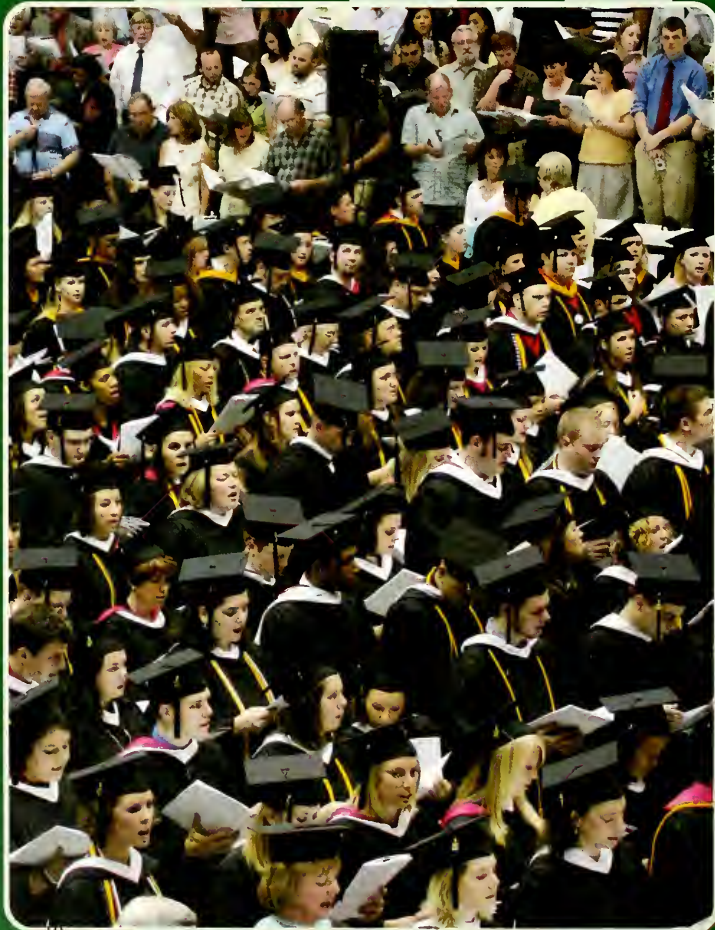

April is the cruelest month, breeding
Lilacs out of the dead land, mixing
Memory and desire, stirring
Dull roots with spring rain.

O'Connor was also named the 2007 SAC Pitcher Of The Year and the Food Lion South Atlantic Conference Tournament Most Valuable Player. Four players were named to 2007 Louisville Slugger/NFCA NCAA Division II All-South Atlantic Region Teams. Meredith O'Connor earned first-team honors while catcher Karie Pushard, first baseman Leah Krohn, and centerfielder Taylor Queen, all juniors, were picked to the second team. Young, Talented 07 Baseball Squad Impresses with 35-17 Mark

The L-R baseball Bears posted a vastly-improved 35-17 record for 2007 (12-11 in the SAC), and with 20 freshmen and sophomores on a roster of 32, they offer an exciting prospect for the near future. They are a talented, hard-hitting bunch, and garnered the honors to prove it.

SS Taylor MacCurdy and C Dallas Tarleton were selected to the 2007 All-South Atlantic Conference First Team while Justin Crowell was named the league's freshman of the year, SAC officials announced today as part of its annual baseball awards. MacCurdy, a senior shortstop from Charlotte, N.C., and a graduate of Providence High School, leads the team in batting average (.390) and runs (52) and is second in the South Atlantic Conference in doubles (17) and hits (78).

Tarleton was also selected to the 2007 NCAA Division II ABCA/Rawlings All-South Region Second Team. A native of Monroe, N.C., he finished third on the team in batting this year with a .347 average to go along with five home runs and 36 runs batted in. Senior outfielder Jordan Ackley (Walnut Cove, N.C./South Stokes HS), who is second on the team in RBI (45), batting average (.371), runs (50) and hits (73), was named to the second team. Crowell, a native of New London, N.C., and a graduate of North Stanly High School, went 7-1 on the year with a 3.21 earned run average and 41 strikeouts.

On August 3rd, L-R announced the hiring of Paul Knight as its new head baseball coach. Knight becomes the 18th Head Coach in Lenoir-Rhyne Baseball history. Knight comes to Lenoir-Rhyne after spending the past five years (2003-07) as the Head Baseball Coach at Florida Tech in Melbourne, Fla. As Panthers mentor, Knight fashioned a 139-128 record (.521) and led the squad to 36 team records. Knight, with the team in a rebuilding stage, accomplished this while competing in what is arguably the nations strongest NCAA Division II Baseball Conference, The Sunshine State.

"I am thrilled to be returning to North Carolina and having the opportunity to coach at Lenoir-Rhyne," said Knight. "I am also looking forward to continuing the success L-R has built recently and leading the team to the top of the South Atlantic Conference and a berth in the playoffs. This is a great coaching opportunity for me."

The Little Read

Want to meet the author of the popular children's book The Watsons Go to Birmingham--1963? Obviously, a lot of kids in the Hickory area did! The Little Read Family Festival reached out to the community on Saturday, March 24 by hosting delightful family activities and a free public reading by well-known author Christopher Paul Curtis. By discussing his book about the deep South in the 1960s, many children were able to return to their homes and schools with new insight and inspiration.

Lenoir-Rhyne College's Visiting Writers Series was lucky enough to host Gary Snyder, who is a Zen poet and environmental activist. Raised in the 1930's by a single mother who was a newspaper journalist, Snyder learned at a young age that it's okay to question the values of society. After spending considerable time working in forests, Snyder, a master of English, Chinese, and Japanese, put his passions for language and the environment together to pen many poetry collections, such as Mountains and Rivers Without End and The Practice of the Wild. For over fifty years, Gary Snyder has changed a generation of readers with his social criticisms and enduring themes of wildlife. As an author, he has had influence over environmental matters.

Gary Snyder Comes to LR

Gary Snyder signs a book for Dr. Tony Abbott, Lenoir-Rhyne's Writer in Residence, after the ceremony. Many students and faculty were fortunate enough to receive an autograph.

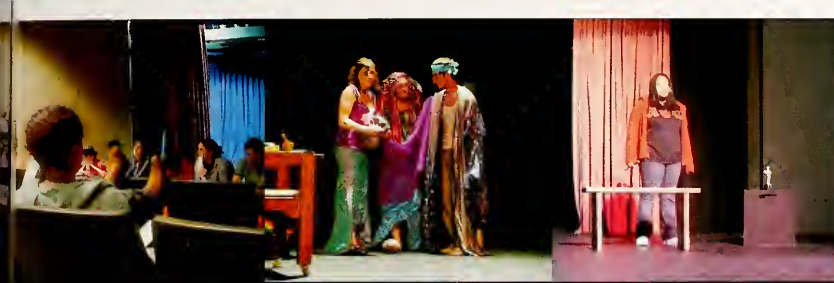

Full of fun, laughs, and great music, the 71st A Capella Choir embarked on its Spring Concert Tour from March 21-26, 2007, featuring several selections from the Baltic States. Numbers performed in the concerts were diverse, ranging from Cyrillus Kreek's "Taiveti Lau" to Alice Parker's "Hark I Hear the Harps Eternal" to several selections written by Dr. Weber in memory of meaningful servants of Christ. Along the way, concerts were given in Knoxville, TN; Harrisburg, VA; Lansdale, PA; Lebanon, PA; Baltimore, MD; and Lynchburg, VA. Choir members Laura D'Angelo, Betsy Ward, Ed Miller, and Andy Talian experienced the joy of performing for their home congregations, while the whole group enjoyed a tour of Gettysburg battlefield, a visit to the oldest Lutheran church in America, and free time in both Philadelphia and Baltimore. As usual, the tour ended with the traditional Michael Jackson dance party on the bus ride home!

The theatre department had a busy spring as the playmakers undertook two major productions: Midnight Theatre and "Here There Be Dragons", based on Ray Bradbury's short story. Midnight Theatre, held on Spring Fling weekend, featured several integral actors to the department and was directed by students Felisha Macon, Lauren Vanderschuur, Jen Chapman, Rachel Gentry, and Ashlee Goodie. "Here There Be Dragons" was presented only a few short days before....leaving the cast with many rehearsals and shows all at once! The shows were successful, leaving the actors as tired but shining stars!

Hickory Dickory Huck

Los Osos, Lenoir-Rhyne's Ultimate Frisbee squad, staged the second annual tournament at L-R, called "Hickory Dickory Huck II", March 18 & 19. Teams journeyed from Williams, Notre Dame, Georgia, Virginia, Wofford, Furman, and others. The weekend was cold and windy - ridiculously so, especially on Saturday. Temps for the first game had barely crept up to freezing, & the sidelines were chilly and uncomfortable throughout. Los Osos breezed through five matches on Saturday, but then ran into a fit, clever, disciplined side from St. Lawrence University (in upstate New York), & The Bus (as they are known) surprised Los Osos in bracket play on Sunday. The two sides met again in the final, which for a time looked grim, with Los Osos down 6-2 at one point. But our heroes came storming back thereafter, pouring on a deluge of classy offence & eventually winning, 13-11. It was a repeat championship. *Top L: Kate & Kelly celebrate a point; Top M: Matt Smith's feng shui; Top R: Glenn Carol gazes into the future; 2nd R: Cheldie; Above: Keith Hawk nabs a wayward pass; Above L: Andy Tallian breaks up a Williams meeting; Right: Lawson and DeCamp in their best B-Boy stance. In memoriam

The deadliest school shooting in history happened on the campus of Virginia Tech on the morning of April 16, 2007, one that appalled the nation and the world. What started as a domestic dispute between a boyfriend and girlfriend ended as a bloody massacre with 32 innocent students needlessly murdered and many more injured. College students around the world showed their support in various ways, and Lenoir-Rhyne held a candlelight vigil in addition to a special chapel service in which the victims were remembered. "Today, we are all Hokies."

Once a year, the student body gathers to recognize and honor the achievements of their peers, particularly seniors. So on Thursday, May 3, 2007 as the senior class walked in, donned in robes, the reality sank in that it was really time to honor their many contributions.

THE 100TH HACAWA

To the L-R Community:

At the dawn of the twentieth century, lots of things were happening around Hickory. New furniture businesses seemed to appear every day, a sewage system was installed, electric lights became widespread, a street-numbering project was underway....and in 1908, seventeen-year-old Lenoir College began working on its first yearbook, which was named the HACAWA (HALLs, CAmpus, WALLs).

Now, in 2008, students grace the campus with iPhones and laptops, but many aspects of Lenoir-Rhyne remain the same as those experienced a century ago. Students still expand their knowledge during classes, though professors now use PowerPoint presentations instead of chalkboards. Each and every one of us prepares for a future career, though our choices are no longer limited to teaching and the ministry. Memorable events are still intact; alumni visit for Homecoming, freshmen meet at Prologue, we still sing "Fair Star of Caroline" at convocations.

And, with great pride, the 2007-08 HACAWA staff has put together Lenoir-Rhyne's 100th consecutive yearbook. We have included many interesting aspects of life in the past, paying tribute to traditions while celebrating all the wonderful events of contemporary life. I hope that you enjoy it.

Playing video games, chatting with friends, talking on the phone or chatting online, all students find something to consume their time when they are away from the classroom. From dances to modern day socialization, we all find ways to occupy our time, lest our minds wander. What is your past-time?

Opening Convo

On the Friday morning of August 23, 2007, the entire student body, faculty, and staff gathered once again for the annual Opening Convocation in P.E. Monroe Auditorium. After musical selections from the college brass quartet, freshmen, seniors, and faculty marched in a dignified fashion. The students were introduced to Dr. Larry M. Hall, the new Executive Vice-President and Dean of the College, and the largest freshmen class in Lenoir Rhyne's history was welcomed warmly.

ASU

The Appalachian State University Football Team (2-0) stayed atop the gridiron world with a 48-7 victory over Lenoir-Rhyne College (0-2) Saturday afternoon in front of a record 28,802 at Kidd Brewer Stadium in Boone, N.C. The two long-time rivals were meeting for the first time since the 1982 season. Appalachian State was ranked No. 1 in the Football Championship Subdivision Poll.

The Mountaineers' Trey Elder (Duncan, S.C.), subbing for the injured Armanti Edwards (Greenwood, S.C.) at quarterback, passed for 210 yards and four touchdowns and ran for another score as Appalachian State extended the nation's longest winning streak to 16 games and its consecutive home victory streak to 28 contests. Appalachian State scored touchdowns on its first five possessions and built a 38-0 lead with 6:43 remaining in the first half. Mountaineer wideout Dexter Jackson (Dunwoody, Ga.), who finished with two touchdown catches, opened the scoring by hauling in an 18-yard pass from Elder for the games' first points.

Elder then connected on a 42-yard strike to Tavaris Washington (Laurinburg, N.C.), who raced down the left sideline for the score, before running it in from three yards out to make the score 21-0 after one quarter of play. In the second quarter, Appalachian State tight end Nic Cardwell (Kernersville, N.C.) hauled in a 33-yard touchdown pass and Jackson's 59-yard touchdown reception rounded out the touchdown scoring for the Mountaineers. Two of Appalachian State's touchdowns were one-play drives as the Mountaineers led 38-0 at intermission and 48-0 in the fourth quarter before the Bears finally scored.

Freshman running back James Pone (Wilson, N.C./James B. Hunt HS) led L-R with 91 yards rushing and freshman tailback Andrew Courman (Beaufort, N.C./East Carteret HS) scored the Bears' lone touchdown with a five-yard scamper with just 44 seconds remaining in the contest. Senior defensive back Danny Boback (Fort Myers, Fla./Elon Univ.) and sophomore linebacker P.J. Hall (Stanley, N.C./East Gaston HS) were the Bears' top tacklers with eight.

Frank McCourt

Pulitzer Prize-winning author Frank McCourt gave a fun and insightful talk to a nearly-packed PE Monroe on November 1st, as the centerpiece of the Falls Visiting Writers Series. He recounted stories from his life, and third installment of his memoirs, Teacher Man - including what to do with a sandwich thrown by a student - and traded Irish accents with English instructor and fellow Irishman Adrian Rice. McCourt is the Irish-American author of the autobiographical book Angelas Ashes, which won a Pulitzer Prize for Biography, the National Book Critics Circle Award and the Los Angeles Times Book Award. He is also the author of two other memoirs, Tis and Teacher Man.

Born in Brooklyn in 1931 to Irish immigrant parents, he and his family returned to Limerick for want of work, and there sank even deeper into poverty. McCourts father was an alcoholic who was often out of work and eventually abandoned the family. Three of the seven children died of diseases aggravated by malnutrition and their squalid living conditions. McCourt himself almost died of typhoid fever when he was 10. When he was 13, McCourt dropped out of school, alternating between odd jobs and petty crime to help support his family. At age 19, he returned to the United States and worked at odd jobs until he was drafted into the U.S. Army. After returning to civilian life, he was able to pursue a college education through the G.I. Bill. Although he had never attended high school, McCourt was able to persuade the admissions office of New York University to accept him as a student.

After earning a masters degree from Brooklyn College, he taught creative writing for 30 years in the New York public schools. After retiring as a teacher, McCourt wrote Angelas Ashes, which has sold more than 4 million copies and has been published in 27 countries. Teacher Man tells the story of his career as a school teacher.

Walter Isaacson

Acclaimed biographer and journalist Walter Isaacson visited Lenoir-Rhyne on October 8th as part of L-R's Visiting Writers Series: In Their Own Words. Mike Collins, host of Charlotte Talks, interviewed Isaacson for later broadcast on WFAE public radio. Isaacson is the author of several best-selling biographies of American leaders. His books include Einstein: His Life and Universe, published in 2007; Benjamin Franklin: An American Life, published in 2003; Kissinger: A Life, published in 1992; and The Wise Men: Six Friends and the World They Made, co-authored with Evan Thomas and published in 1986. Isaacson is CEO and president of Aspen Institute, a non-profit organization that seeks to stimulate dialogue and create enlightened leaders. He has had a varied career. Isaacson was born in New Orleans, La. He graduated from Harvard College in 1974 and was a Rhodes Scholar at Pembroke College, Oxford University, where he earned an M.A. in 1976.

He began his journalistic career at the Sunday Times in London. He has since worked as political correspondent and eventually as managing editor at Time magazine and as chairman and CEO at CNN. Isaacson has also served on the boards of a variety of organizations, including a position as vice-chairman of the Louisiana Recovery Authority after Hurricane Katrina.

Dr. King's Birthday

On 21 January Lenoir-Rhyne closed to honor the birthday of the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Speaker T. Leon Williams, director of intercultural programs at Buena Vista University in Storm Lake, Iowa, addressed a P.E. Monroe audience of several hundred students and citizens at 10 Am. He offered an engrossing impression of what Dr. King might say about present-day America. The presentation was followed by a march, sponsored by the NAACP, to the Ridgeview Library.

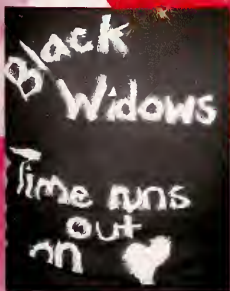

Valentine's Day at Lenoir-Rhyne

Corinthians 13: 4-8

4. Love is patient, love is kind. It does not envy, it does not boast, it is not proud.
5. It is not rude, it is not self-seeking, it is not easily angered, it keeps no record of wrongs.
6. Love does not delight in evil but rejoices with the truth.
7. It always protects, always trusts, always hopes, always perseveres.
8. Love never fails.

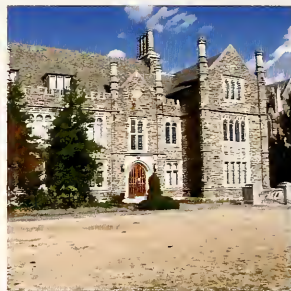

Single Awareness Day:

Strange but true story

"I was planning on somberly celebrating Single Awareness Day with a lovely black outfit. However, I awoke on the morning of February 14, 2008 and just threw on something, not thinking about the repercussions. All through the morning, people kept complimenting my top. It was then I realized that I'd accidentally worn a red shirt on Valentine's Day!

A Cappella Choir at Duke Chapel

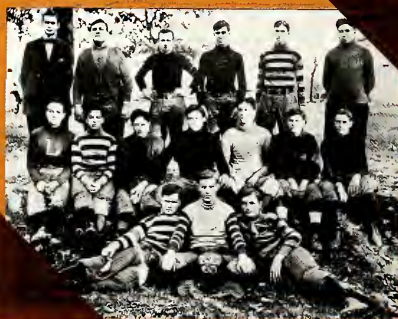

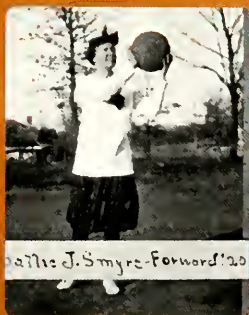

Lenoir-Rhyne's A Cappella Choir, the premier performance ensemble, was invited to kick off their spring tour at the legendary Duke Chapel in Durham, NC. The choir was warmly received at this Methodist venue, with a sizeable audience that included the largest number of choir alums this year. Longtime director Dr. E. Ray McNeely, who is now retired and resides in Wilmington, was in attendance and performed with the choir on O Day Full of Grace, a song on which all alums joined in. After a wonderful concert, the A Cappella Choir headed to St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Durham to perform Marty Haugen's Evening Prayer with the Lutheran students at Duke, and then settled down for a nice meal!

The 2007 season for Lenoir-Rhyne College Football was the first under Head Coach Fred Goldsmith. Goldsmith, a seasoned football mentor who was an NCAA Division I-A National Coach Of The Year at Rice (1992) and Duke (1994), has brought excitement and vigor to the program since being announced Head Coach in November of 2006. The season saw its share of highs and lows as the Bears finished with a record of 2-9 overall and 0-6 in South Atlantic Conference play. Lenoir-Rhyne picked up consecutive home victories over Benedict (38-13 on September 22) and Brevard (23-12 on September 29) and led the league in attendance for the sixth straight year. Moretz Stadium, home of the Bears, saw 30,915 people pass through the gates and Lenoir-Rhyne averaged 5,152 fans for its six home games.

Lenoir-Rhyne also played old-time rival Appalachian State University on Saturday, September 8. It was the first meeting between the two schools since 1982 and the week after the Mountaineers upset the Wolverines of The University of Michigan in Ann Arbor.

Four players earned All-South Atlantic Conference honors for the Bears. Senior placekicker Andrew Coln (Simpsonville, S.C.) was named to the first team while senior guard Greg Jones (Elon, N.C.), junior defensive back Barry Tate (Burlington, N.C.) and sophomore long snapper Jordon Simmons (Charlotte, N.C.) was selected to the second team. Despite the record, Lenoir-Rhyne had several impressive individual performances on the year. Freshman running backs James Pone (Wilson, N.C.) and Andrew Courman (Beauford, S.C.) led the way on the ground with 644 and 545 yards, respectively. Freshman quarterback Daniel Anderson (Douglas, Ga.), subbing for the injured Justin Sanders (Monroe, N.C.), did an admirable job under center as he passed for 802 yards and threw two touchdowns. On defense, sophomore linebacker Dewayne Jones (Reidsville, N.C.) was the teams top tackler with 89 while freshman defensive back Marcus Shuford (Newton, N.C.) had an outstanding first year with the Bears as he finished with 76 tackles and tied for the South Atlantic Conference lead in interceptions with four. Lenoir-Rhynes special teams was strong too as Coln led the league in field goal percentage, making 13-of-18 field goal attempts and finishing first on the team in scoring with 52 points.

Women's Soccer 2007

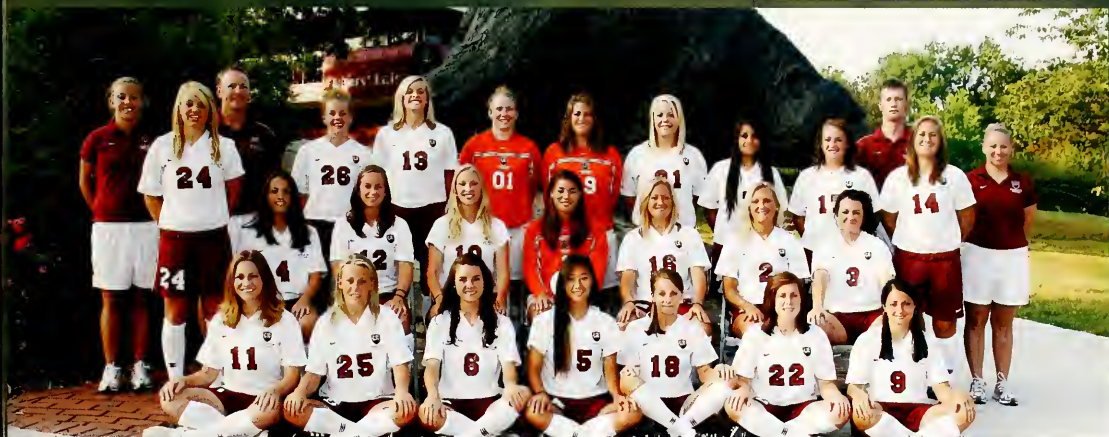

The Lady Bears season ended with 2-0 loss to Catawba in the semifinals of the Food Lion South Atlantic Conference Tournament on November 2nd. The L-R women finished the season at 7-10-3, 7th in the SAC. It was a building season, with a number of bright spots for the future. One is freshman midfielder Rebbeca Lin, who was named to the All-Southeast Region First Team, leading her team with 11 goals for the season.

Men's Soccer 2007

A tale of two seasons

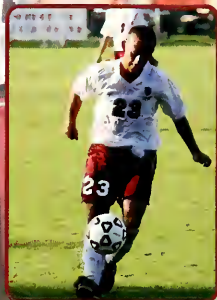

Coming in with great expectations after a 19-1-1 campaign in 2006, the senior-Rhyne men footballers began the 2007 campaign in familiar style, with ten consecutive victories. Then came a surprising 4-0 away defeat to Carson-Newman on 29 September. Things went downhill after that, with five defeats over the remaining eight matches. The season ended with a 6-10 defeat to Carson-Newman in the conference tournament.

Despite the disappointing season, three key players earned honors. Junior midfielder Luis Carrizosa and sophomore defender Aaron Wheeler were named to the first team while junior defender Gary Higgins garnered second team accolades. Higgins was also named a Daktronics NCAA Division II Mens Soccer honorable mention All-American, and Carrizosa to the ESPN The Magazine CoSIDA Academic All-District III College Division Second Team.

LOS OSOS

Duke "B-Deviled IV"

Tourney, 20-21 October

Los Osos had two very different experiences at Duke B this year, losing all four matches on Saturday, but winning all three on Sunday (and by hefty margins), to claim the Chumppionship. Not bad, in the end, for a squad that hadn't really played together in a tournament before...

All Jacked Up: Greensboro, 1-2 December

Again it was the tale of two very different days at Greensboro this year. On Saturday, Los Osos knocked off Guilford ('Biohazard') and tournament hosts, UNCG ('G-Funk') - the latter brought a 25-man squad, at least half of whom had mohawks - and then had an experienced club team, Greensboro GUM, at 7-7 before cramp and fatigue began to creep in. Still, with a small squad Los Osos barely lost to (a fresh and just-arrived) Elon, 10-8, in the 4th game on the trot. On Sunday it was a scramble to find players, and Los Osos played savage (no substitutes) all day, losing twice. Top L: Kemper K hauls one in vs. Biohazard; Top R: Isaac Smith seeks targets downfield; 2nd L: Kate M frustrates a UNCG handler; L: believe it or not, Isaac managed to catch this one; R: Matt Smith gets up vs. Elon; Bottom L: Kemper oes the same vs. Guilford; Bottom R: Kelly hits an open man vs. Elon.

los osos vs. biohazard

On February 23rd Los Osos played their first friendly against Biohazard (Guilford), winning all three matches in style. Kelly Moss, Matt Smith, Kate Meiners, Chelsie Propst, Andy Talian, Anthony DeMalia ('05), Lisa DeMalia, and Drs. Schramm and Custer took on a Biohazard side with more than twice as many members. Fun was had all around - and both teams now look forward to Hickory Dickory Huck III in March, and to Guilford's own tourney in April (for which see the 2009 HACAFA).

We have just been to our first tournament and were very successful at our first time out as a competition team. We got 2 Gold medals and 1 Bronze. Next season we plan on having a big recruitment pull and getting a lot of things accomplished and watching the sport grow here at LR as it continues to grow nationwide. We intend to continue going to tournaments and bringing home the hardware. The sport is Submission Wrestling which is a variation of wrestling which eliminates the pins and adds the aspect of joint locks and blood chokes. It is a great full body workout and provides realistic self defense training in the ideology that most fights will end up on the ground.

Lenoir-Rhyne College Association of Nursing Students, LRCANS, is having yet again another great year. This year the organization is some 187 active members strong who love to help out and participate in events planned by the officers. This year they adopted Multiple Sclerosis as our organizational cause to support. Throughout the year, they have planned fundraisers as well as ways to raise awareness throughout the campus community. LRCANS also participated in the local MS walk. Continually looking for volunteer opportunities to help get their name out on campus as well as in the community, they hold monthly meetings for members, at which they discuss opportunities such as national conferences, summer internships, medical mission trips and alternative springs breaks. This is a time for members to mingle with each other and get to know others within their major.

CAMPUS CRUSADE

FOR CHRIST

Campus Crusade

Campus Crusade for Christ is a non-denominational Christian group here on campus that promotes fellowship and learning in a fun, contemporary environment. In addition to the regular Tuesday night worship services, there are four regularly-meeting Bible study groups based on age and gender. Moreover, members have the opportunity to attend special events through the Charlotte Metro division (which includes many Charlotte-area universities) such as metro meetings and retreats, that foster relationships with members from other schools. Crusaders would agree that the atmosphere is light, friendly, and welcoming to all.

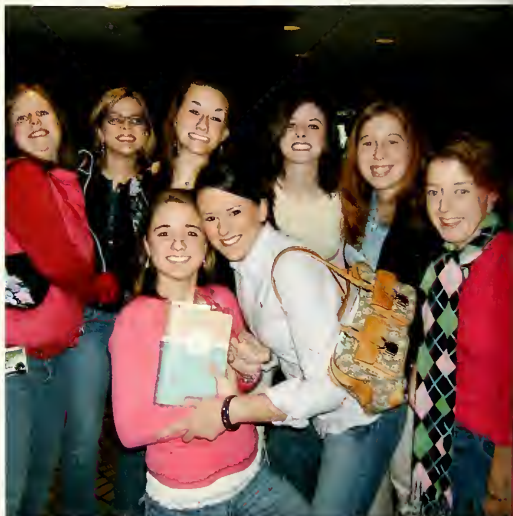

Pictures (clockwise from left):

1. TiLissa Roseman chats with the evening's guest speaker. Speakers were often pastors from area churches or special Campus Crusade reps.
2. Several members smile as their picture is snapped at the first Charlotte Metro meeting of the year, held at Queens University. Metro was a good chance to bond with the group.
3. A large group of people gather after a meeting. Many stayed around for a long time to chat every week!
4. At Fall Getaway 2007, several members have fun performing in a goofy show. There were a plethora of activities for those interested in spicing up their lives and having fun.
5. Luxuriating in the pool, Crusaders enjoy the bi-annual parties hosted by local businessman J.V. Huffman. The Huffmans hosted evenings of swimming, food, movies, and friendship.

6. Some girls smile after a fun day out.
7. After a fun day of games at Fall Getaway, a group of girls takes a break. This retreat was a time for Campus Crusade members at several different campuses to get together in South Carolina for a weekend of fun.

InterVarsity

CARL A. RUDISILL LIBRARY
LENOIR-RHYNE COLLEGE

InterVarsity is a non-denominational Christian Fellowship where students come together to grow in love for God and for others. InterVarsity focuses on establishing and advancing a witnessing community and following Jesus, as Savior and Lord. There are several parts to IV on the Lenoir-Rhyne campus. These include Small Group Bible studies, The Highway, Outreach events, and retreats. All are welcome!

GSA is a group that supports and advocates for equality on the Lenoir-Rhyne College campus, focusing on the support and equality of all sexual orientations. This includes straight, gay, bisexual, transgender, intersex, and questioning students on campus. This student-led organization attempts to call attention to the injustices on the L-R campus and does exactly what its title suggests..... it's an ALLIANCE. Just students finding the courage to stand up for equality.

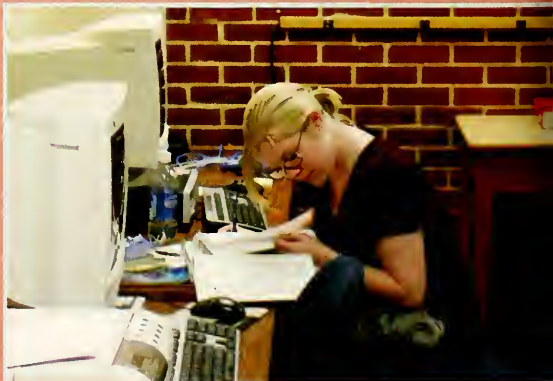

BROYHILL INSTITUTE

The Broyhill Leadership Institute is a program designed for Lenoir-Rhyne College sophomores who have shown outstanding leadership potential. Directed by Professor William Mauney, the group takes two retreats each year, performs community service, and participates in leadership classes.

Newman Club

The Newman Club, which is open to Catholic and non-Catholic students alike, strives to maintain faith and traditions while sharing them with others.

How is this accomplished? The club participates in a variety of activities that range from a weekly Bible study to volunteering, both in individual and group capacities. Some make the commitment of assisting with St. Aloysius Catholic Church's large and distinguished youth group, and many attend worship services.

One of the most unique clubs on campus, the Newman Club improves the Hickory community with an emphasis on faith, education, and stewardship for all.

EARTHBOUND

EarthBound, one of Lenoir-Rhyne's newest clubs, has gotten a good start this year. In late September, members ventured into the Appalachian Mountains to enjoy nature on a camping trip. They have also focused on making the school environment more conscious of the environment by providing recycling bins for students' rooms. The efforts of EarthBound do a great deal towards promoting earth-conscious attitudes.

The mission of Lenoir-Rhyne College Democrats is to educate students concerning political issues and governmental affairs, and motivate them to take action generating positive change. College Democrats encourage members to take full advantage of their rights to vote and voice their opinion as well as encourage them to use the Democratic Party as their outlet for their political and social activism.

North Carolina Student Legislature

North Carolina Student Legislature (NCSL), was founded in 1937, is the oldest active student legislature in the country.

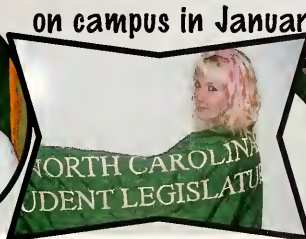

The NCSL serves two fundamental purposes. First, through actual participation in a model General Assembly, it provides students with a close-up, practical education in the political and legislative process. Secondly, NCSL gives students a statewide forum for expressing their ideas and opinions on current issues to state and national leaders. NCSL's voice is heard at many levels, and more than 40% of NCSL's legislative ideas have been written into law.

Circle K

Service club works to improve Hickory.

Kathryn Gaither

Circle K at Lenoir-Rhyne College is the most active service club on campus. An affiliate of the local Kiwanis Club, it has been active for over twenty years.

Projects this year included the Catawba RiverFest, the Big Sweep of Hickory, Angel Tree, and caroling at nursing homes, among others. In addition, the members maintained a schedule of monthly visits to the Catawba Science Center, where they helped preschool and elementary classes learn about planets, machines, botany, and more.

Their Kiwanis Club representative, Harrison Yount, is a retired professor of Lenoir-Rhyne.

Teaching Fellows

Lenoir-Rhyne is proud to be partners with the NC Teaching Fellows program. Lenoir-Rhyne is one of 18 Teaching Fellows programs in North Carolina and one of just five private institutions. The Teaching Fellows Program is a prestigious one and the institutions that partner with it are indeed elite.

This year saw the first group of L-R Teaching Fellows ever, and the inaugural class has enjoyed much prestige and many good times. The Fellows reside on the first floor of the LLC, and they have truly become a close-knit group as they study, share both problems and triumphs, and adjust to college life. Lenoir-Rhyne was founded as a teachers' college, and these students have kept a wonderful tradition going in a grand way.

Model United Nations

Lenoir-Rhyne sends 12 students to New York during April to the National Model United Nations, the largest Model UN program in the world. LR has participated in the NMUN since 1975, representing various countries both the powerful and the struggling. This year the LR delegation will represent Kazakhstan!

The conference simulates the major bodies of the United Nations: Security Council, General Assembly, Economic and Social Council, as well as the International Court of Justice. Students must be prepared to discuss the substantive aspects of the issues and problems on the agendas of each of the councils and committees.

A Capella Choir

72nd Concert Season

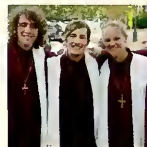

The A Cappella Choir was established in 1935 by Professor Kenneth B. Lee, who was a graduate of St. Olaf College and an alumnus of the famed St. Olaf Choir. After Lee, Professor Emeritus E. Ray McNeely directed the choir for many successful years.

Dr. Paul Weber serves as only the third director of the ensemble in its seventy-two-year history. The choir has given more than 880 concerts in twenty-two states and has made eight European tours. It also makes numerous appearances each year, including an annual spring tour; this year's tour is scheduled for the Midwest.

Choir members hail from all majors, and many also study voice. Regardless of their primary area of study, all students at Lenoir-Rhyne College have the opportunity to perform with a nationally known, first-rate ensemble.

Vivace! The altos sing at a sectional as Lauren Abel leads them through a difficult Latin piece. Each section was required to have a thirty-minute sectional every week, but it was well worth it; not only did the singers learn the notes well, but they bonded. The A Capella Choir 2007-08

You said....what?! A group of singers takes time to chat before choir. The music building was a very lively and happy place before every practice as choir members reported news and happenings to each other.

Look up and smile. Several girls joke and laugh prior to a show. Singers in the dressing rooms were always giddy, for after several months of hard work, they were about to present their repertoire to an enthusiastic audience.

2007 Christmas Concert, December 3rd-4th

Magnificat

A merry time was had by all who attended the annual Christmas at Lenoir-Rhyne on December 3rd and 4th, 2007. Headlining the bill was the A Capella Choir, directed by Paul Weber and accompanied by a full orchestra and the renowned La Cairina Quartet. The choir performed a variety of literature, including both Schutt's and Weber's "Magnificat" and Rachmaninoff's "Tebe poyem", among others. Interspersed throughout the show were numbers by Lenoir-Rhyne's Womens' Ensemble and the Lenoir-Rhyne Youth Chorus Chamber Singers, both directed by Florence Jowers. Following the final concert was the annual tree lighting, which proved to be a festive beginning to the Christmas season for participants and audience members alike.

The newest musical ensemble at Lenoir-Rhyne is the Womens' Ensemble, now in its second year, which is directed by Florence Jowers. This treble group performs at several chapel functions, charity events, special concerts, and the annual Christmas at Lenoir-Rhyne event. Women choose to join this ensemble because it is much less demanding on their time than other options, and they also experience the close bonds that come from singing in a smaller, intimate setting. Now gaining popularity, the Womens' Ensemble is growing rapidly, so you will definitely be seeing a lot more of them as they make their presence known!

Made up of leaders in the A Cappella Choir, they perform a variety of repertoire, ranging from madrigals to classical to vocal jazz. The College Singers supplies a section in the A Cappella Choir's home concerts as well as on tour. This year, the College Singers had the opportunity to participate in a Buxtehude concert, as well as a couple of evening prayer performances and recording of two tracks for a Lutheran CD. The singers are directed by Dr. Paul Weber and accompanied by Jeana Neal Borman.

Judith Burbank's studio voice class is a small group comprised of music majors with an emphasis in voice and other serious vocal pupils. In this class, singers learn about expression and movement, while also having the valuable chance to perform for and receive feedback from their peers. Professor Burbank stages musical numbers for fall and spring shows. In November, the group performed a recital, "All Things English", in which students performed American and British art songs and arias. In April, they staged selections from Mozart operas. Students benefit widely from this chance to develop their skills productively in a professional environment.

Jazz Ensemble

The Lenoir-Rhyne College Jazz Ensemble is both a club band dedicated to furthering students' abilities to play jazz and an active performing ensemble. The Jazz Ensemble is a reorganization of the "stage band" in addition, performing diverse styles of music, including swing, bebop, blues, funk, Latin, and popular songs. Membership is open to all Lenoir-Rhyne College students by audition. The Jazz Ensemble has been happily tackling improvisational skills and playing some very advanced combo music of the 1960s-1980s. This year, they've had workshops with Patrick Brown and the Dale Fielder Quartet, honing their jazz skills further. In addition, they performed concerts both in December and April.

Members (not in order):
Dr. Christopher Nigrelli, conductor and trombone;
Matthew Cochran, Melissa West, Alan Weisgerber, Jeremy Ard, and Joseph Dorsch, saxophones;
Zachary Bryan and Isaac Bryan, trumpets;
Julia Byrd, piano; Austen Peters, drums; Laura Diane Greene and Chris Murphy, bass.

Barefoot in the Park

by Neil Simon

Corie and Paul Bratter just spent six honeymoon nights at the Plaza Hotel. Today they come home to their Manhattan Brownstone to start the rest of their perfect married life except the apartment is tiny, there's a hole in the ceiling, the neighbors are crazy, the furniture's late, the heat doesn't work, and it's all happening six flights up.

Who knew marriage could be such bliss
Barefoot in the Park was performed October 3rd thru 7th

Talking With

by Jane Martin

Eleven characters speaking from the gut, sharing stories, just talking. Meet a snake handler, a grieving daughter, a twirler for Jesus, a McDonalds fan, a busted rodeo cowgirl, a tattooed woman, an actress down on her luck, and a woman in the twilight of her years.

Talking With was performed November 9th thru 11th.

The Diary of Anne Frank

by Frances Goodrich and Albert Hackett

On July 6, 1942 a family went into hiding. In an annex hidden from the world, a teenage girl wrote to quell her fears, pass the days, and make sense of life. In 1947, her diary was published. Now, she reaches across decades.

"It's a wonder I haven't abandoned all my ideals, they seem so absurd and impractical. Yet I cling to them because I still believe, in spite of everything, that people are truly good at heart."

Anne Frank, July 15, 1944

Pep Band

Pep Bands (both football and basketball) are open to all students without audition. The Football Pep Band performs at all home games as well as selected away games. They bring exciting music to the stands, lifting the spirits of players and fans alike.

the figurines

On Wednesday, October 24th L-H was treated to the debut of The Figurines, the new musical, poetic and multimedia band consisting of instructor of English Adrian Rice and Jimmy Brown, guitarist of Airspace. They thrilled a crowd of about 200.

On January 25th, 2008, the Figurines played L-R again, debuting several new songs, including "Gates of Eden", which brought the house to its feet for several minutes.

CROCS

The votes are in! A recent poll conducted by the Fashion Police found crocs to be the biggest fashion crime of 2007. Why? Reasons cited were that they're made of plastic, and they make your feet lo enormous.

~~OUT~~

This trend has just been here too long. Now, the look is longer tops over tighter pants. Mothers and teachers everywhere are breathing sighs of relief.

Showing your stomach

Excessive jewelry

One tasteful necklace and modest earrings will do the job.

People have finally just gotten tired of these. They'll be back again.

Colorful polos with attention-calling collars

Shirrtails hanging out

It'll all be back one day, though

Tacky polos came back after being held in disfavor in the late 1980's and early 1990's. Also, notice the styles in the pictures to the right. In 1974, two-piece swimsuits and flared pants were in. In the 1980's, both looks were abandoned, but flares enjoyed a comeback in the 1990's, and bikinis are about all we see today.

Headband.

Who wouldn't want to wear this comfortable accessory? It appeals to people who sport many different styles. You can find them at any store from Hot Topic to Charlotte Russe!

Walk through the LRC campus in the summer and you'll definitely see them!

Jumpers.

Goodbye, Jennifer Aniston! Hello, Jennifer Lopez, Kate Hudson, and all the other stars who have made curly cool again.

Legging. They aren't just for dancers anymore. Girls wear them under dresses; they're slimming!

Wearing tacky pajama pants out in public. You see people donning them everywhere these days, from chilling in the dorms to sitting in class.

Scarves. Everybody's favorite winter accessory is back now, and is often seen on students in 60 degree weather.

Curly hair.

Take a look at these two pairs of shoes, one from the 1940's and one from Renee Diener's closet. What can you say? What goes around comes around!

So far they'll probably always be

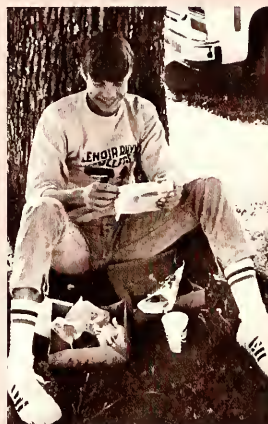

Don't pick up any of these items on your next visit to the mall

All we need is a deep voice of the 70s narrators and we are cooking with movies!

AH! My eyes! The colors....the COLORS!

Nothing like reading letters from Mom in Dad's shirt!

Rapunzel! Rapunzel! Let down your hair!

Girls, as much as we hate to admit it, we'll never see the day when boys will wear suits to class again.

Flapper-esque? It was all the rave in the 20s...but let's keep it there!

Everything about this look is perfectly terrible. From the barely there shorts to the three-quarter length sleeves to the hairdo is blessed assurance that guys will never sport this style again.

WHOA! Let's just not go there. Can you say Flashdance?

This Sophie Tucker-esque hat is better suited for Fanny Brice and Ziegfeld girls than you.

On him: plaid shorts. On her: miniscule collar, long, skinny shorts.

This looks like an ad for a nice, upscale clothing shop: one that's only targeted at the 90+ consumer base!

How ya gonna keep them down on the farm after they've seen Par-ee? Stick them in these clothes, and they wouldn't be caught dead leaving the farm! If you're donning this apparel, you're most likely in World War I. Or you haven't discovered sunscreen yet.

Things that were never "in" to begin with:

Senoir Class Poem

Of when we in life's review
 Reflect upon friendship's priceless store,
 Our thoughts shall once again renew
 The jewels claimed from founts of yore,
 What kind caress the years have lent
 To bosom friends, whose ties remain
 Unsevered still by seasons spent
 In search of true time-honored fame!

We bid thee cheer, our dear Lenoir,
 And may your life continued be
 That golden gem, by which spirits soar
 To realms above the common sea.
 The prime of life we've spent with you,
 But now our trend must onward lead;
 With courage to bid thee fond adieu,
 We seek to scourge our nation's need.

Our loftier purpose we now proclaim:
 Some sturdy mission to fulfill—
 To crown the right, and then attain
 To glory more renowned still;
 With minds of greater sterling worth,
 The world indeed, we boldly face,
 Its problems deep to help unearth,
 And add to its deserving grace.

FRESHMEN

Freshman Class Poem

First all was strange and very queer,
Though boys were nice and girls were dear,
And oh! so kindly welcomed us!
But—yet, in spite of all the fuss—
We felt a bit homesick and bad
And hard work made us blue and sad.

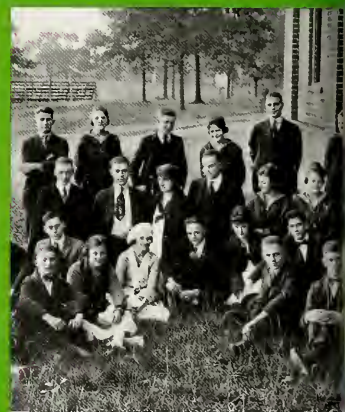

Now things slide smooth and sometimes gay,
Keep growing nicer day by day:
We've ceased to stare like kiddies green,
But put on airs, and as we seem
To feel at home in this dear place,
We settle down to work apace.

You Juniors and you Sophs—pshaw!—
At first of you we stood in awe,
But now— ah me! it is quite clear
You're as mortal as a Freshman here.
Of Seniors still we feel a little shy,
But they will be different by and by.

Don't laugh at us if we are shy,
Don't tease us when we fret or cry.
What did you do when you were new?
The selfsame thing that we now do.—
And the generations that shall come
Will do the same as we have done.

Where'er the schools, where'er the places,
There'll be strange folks and strange faces.
In every school in all the world
There is a Freshman boy and a Freshman girl.

Dr. Longaker (in chapel): "This thing of going to picture shows simply must stopped. Look around you at the people wearing glasses. How did this come about? They, too, infested picture shows when they were young, and see how they are paying for it. I tell you it must be stopped."

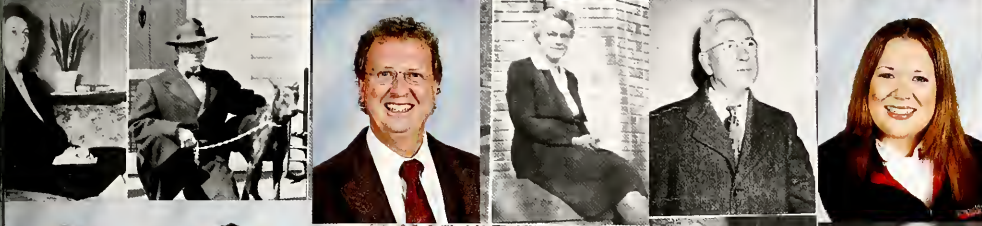

Student Body: "Thank you, Dr. Longaker, we always wondered why the faculty wore glasses."

Famous People at L-R!

Ronald Reagan secretly arrived in Hickory before 3:00, heavily guarded by security. Interesting tidbit: he didn't eat any of the tomatoes in his salad!

Gerald Ford, who was president at the time, gave a rousing speech that focused on balancing power between the local and federal governments and controlling inflation. While he was supposed to give his speech at 6:30, weather kept him from arriving until 9:10!

Lenoir-Rhyne was visited by three US presidents in one day!

"Saturday night, March 20, 1976, was unusually hot and humid; however, the rain failed to discourage those who were anxious to be on hand for Catawba County's presidential visit. On that night, more than 8,000 people gathered in and around Shuford Gymnasium, all hoping for a glance of the nation's Chief Executive."

--from 1977 HACAWA

President Gerald Ford, who was running for reelection in the 1976 election, as well as Republican hopeful Ronald Reagan (who would be in office from 1980-88) and Democratic candidate Jimmy Carter (who won the 1976 election), all stopped by to give speeches after campaigning in Asheville. Shuford Gymnasium was packed to capacity with excited people waiting for a glimpse of these celebrities.

Jimmy Carter, who was perhaps the dark horse of the candidates that visited in 1976, actually ended up winning the election!

Ooh! Grab your camera! Alert the paparazzi! These notable stars have stepped onto L-R's campus and left a lasting memory.

1. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.'s son, Martin Luther King III, spoke in 1992.

2. Lyndie Starnes gave a concert in 1975 for a multitude of screaming fans. 3. Beach music staple group The Tams entertained in 1965.

Residence Halls

a.k.a. "Dorms!"

A sanctuary away from the crazy world and just as much as a prison. The dorms are where we, as students, lay down our bookbags and study or find other relaxing activities to enjoy. From the quiet during exam week to the rambunctious meetings after a long vacation away, these places are our homes away from home.

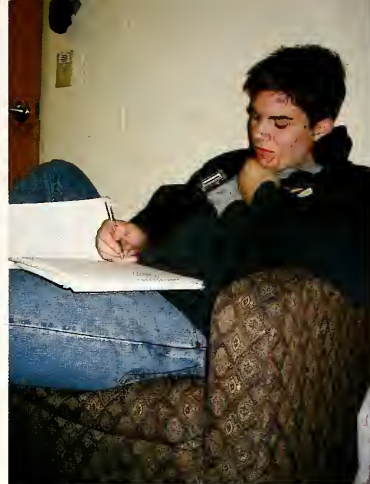

Living-Learning Center

Quiet living, pleasant roommates, studying, and fun made the LLC a wonderful place to live.

Babies? Not us!

Freshman Teaching Fellows Leah Stein and Tashira Bell hang out in their common room. This year was the first time freshmen were allowed to live in the traditionally upperclassman dorm.

Confused

Late one night, Brian Mulligan contemplates a lesson. Many found the LLC to be a very quiet place to study, helping to boost their grades tremendously.

Whack!

Utilizing the third-floor lounge, Andy Talian enjoys a rousing game of ping pong. Students had several options of places they could go to have a good time.

Oh, the drama!

A group of friends spends a Friday night in the second-floor lounge viewing a movie on the big-screen TV. This room was very popular, and those who intended to use it had to arrive early.

Happy together

Roommates pose happily in their common area. Being able to choose roommates was one perk of being an upperclassman.

A harmonious night

Delectable!

Fresh! After a long day of classes, Sarah Grier looks forward to eating a hot, home-cooked meal. Everybody in the LLC was grateful for their kitchenette's convenience, and good smells were wafting out of rooms every time one walked down the hall.

Here, little fishy!

Indulging the "family pet", Edwin Weber feeds his fish. A large number of students cared for fish, since they were the only animals allowed.

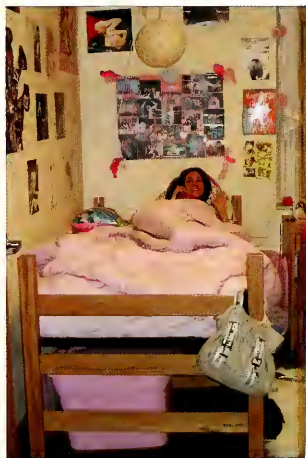

The Lowdown on the LLC

Stationed between the fraternity houses and Price Village, the Living-Learning Center is an upperclassman dorm with both single and double four-person units. It is the newest residence hall, built in 2001, and includes a conference room and two lounges.

What's the theme?

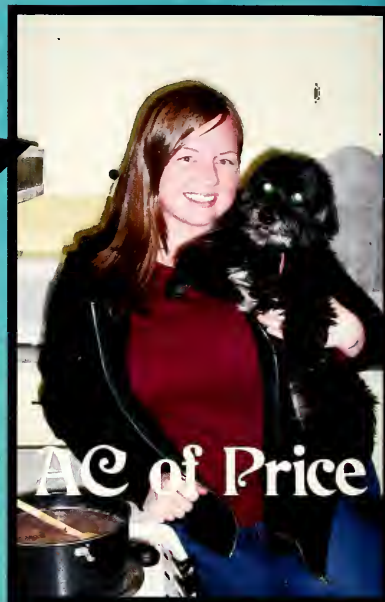

How do students Carla and Stephanie look like they're catching up on their Great Books reading for the week. A calm environment for reading was a huge advantage to the LLC.

In my own little room

Katie Coyle waves while carrying on a phone conversation in her unique pink and Marilyn Monroe-themed room. Since many LLC residents had their own bedrooms, they could personalize them in their unique ways.

Things got a little easier in the 50's with the arrival of mailboxes on Lenoir-Rhyne's campus. Still, a student had to share one with his entire building!

TODAY

In this day and age, students have cell phones and computers to keep in touch. If you want to contact someone, you can call, e-mail, facebook, or text them!

1945

Way back in the day, a student had to trudge out to the mail wagon to attain letters from Mom and Dad. If you weren't around and missed the wagon....too bad!

1965

Now we see a student on telephones that entire buildings shared. Needless to say, phone time was coveted, and people couldn't talk long without repercussions!

A student uses the library's card catalog in 1993. Now, computers have rendered this practice obsolete.

LATE 1940's

Compared to the earliest pictures, photography was becoming advanced. Still, it was in black and white, and look at that camera! Having your picture taken was a huge deal.

1993

These girls are actually recording video footage on a small camcorder! VCR's were becoming more available, as was good-quality film, so capturing memories was easier.

Say cheese! Never mind having a camera around anymore. You can take pictures with your phone! It's even possible to e-mail them, so all your friends can receive them instantly!

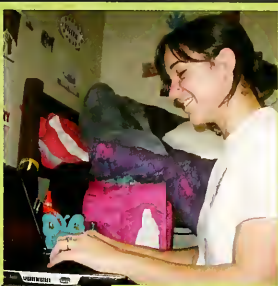

1956 AND 1975

Click, click, click, click, click! Your parents and grandparents had typewriters....if they were lucky. Before that, all writing was (gasp!) by hand!

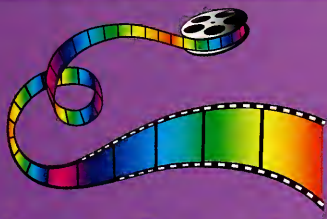

1994

You probably remember these computers from elementary school. They were huge!

TODAY

Everybody has a PC, and your tower is probably half the size of your original computer's. Or it's nonexistent!

but we've got so far to go

1986

TV's were much smaller and you had three options: ABC, NBC, or CBS. There was no ESPN, Lifetime, or Food Network! Without VCR's, DVR's, or reruns on other channels, if you missed a show, you missed it!

TODAY

Ah, cable and satellite. We enjoy a huge variety of channels and programs, with a few being in high definition. Also, if you miss something, it can easily be recorded and rewatched on a VCR.

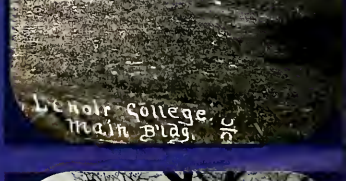

Every generation in modern history has a hard time imagining how their parents got through the day. How would you survive without TV's, computers, and cell phones?

With the demolition this past Summer of Highland Hall, Lenoir-Rhyne parted ways with the last of its original quintet of buildings. Below: Joe Bear was once an actual bear, whose cage was located in front of Highland.

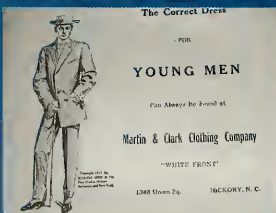

"There was another date that we had each spring, a faculty-student picnic. It was out on the Catawba River. There was no dam on the river then, so there was no lake. The college furnished the picnic lunch. That was always a happy time, a gala time because we were with our lovers all day long. We walked to and from the river. It was a delightful time."

"We never needed to worry about clothes for Sunday. We all wore uniforms. Each fall the girls were lined up and measured for dark blue serge suits. When spring came many bolts of white material were ordered, a heavier type for skirts, a daintier type for blouses. They were made by Miss None Miller who lived on campus in a house which stood where the south side of the Cromer Center now stands."

BUSINESS CLASS

DRUGS! - DRUGS! - DRUGS!

"It was definitely against the rules for boys and girls to have dates, except each first Monday night which was termed 'call night'. At that time the boys went to the dormitory and rang the bell. It was appointed by an especially appointed person who asked whom they wished to see, and then the girl was summoned. However after call night if the boys and girls were permitted to attend a performance together, as a lecture, a musical or debate, the next call night was cancelled.

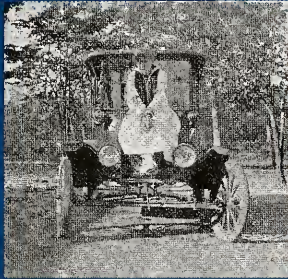

"[On call night] the boys wrote formal notes to their girls asking permission to call. The girls responded in the same manner, accepting or rejecting."

Voices from the Past

"Girls could not walk up town or anywhere off campus unchaperoned. Walking behind them must be either a faculty member or a senior wearing cap and robe. Also caps and robes were worn by the seniors to church."

"Aside from formal dates, another time we could talk with one another was in the evening after dinner. All the students got out and walked back and forth....rather, strolled up and down the 'War Path'....a dirt path that began on the corner of the campus next to St. Andrew's Church and curved around the girls' dormitory and back to the starting point."

"We couldn't walk with the boys, but they walked just behind us and we could have many good talks together. Back and forth and back and forth we strolled."

"Sundays were lovely. We were not supposed to study on Sunday. It was sinful. We had no classes on Mondays. That day was set aside for studying, cleaning rooms, and washing any clothes necessary. There was no visiting between boys and girls on Sunday, except brothers and sisters could visit during certain hours. It was rather amusing to see some students' claims."

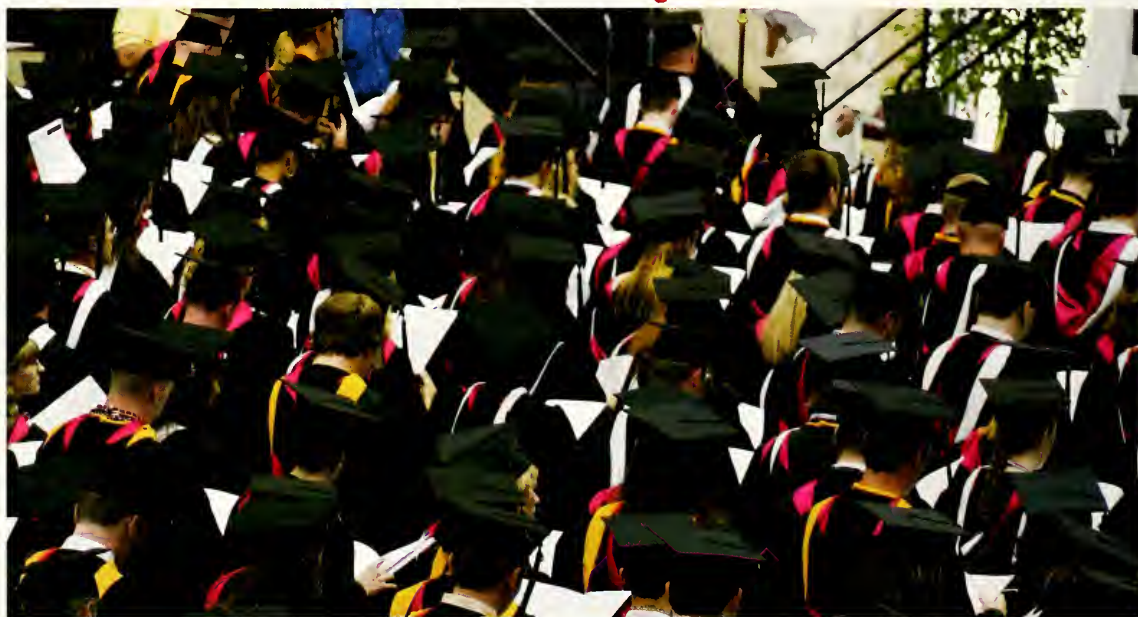

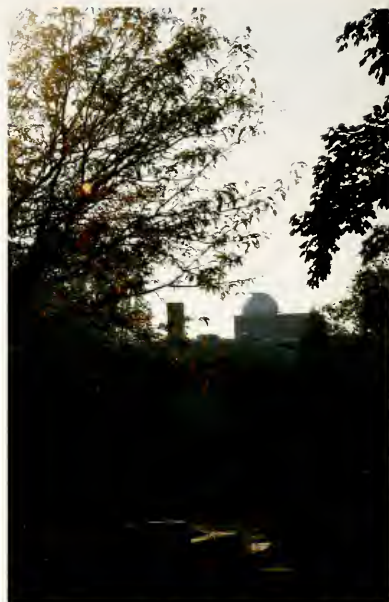

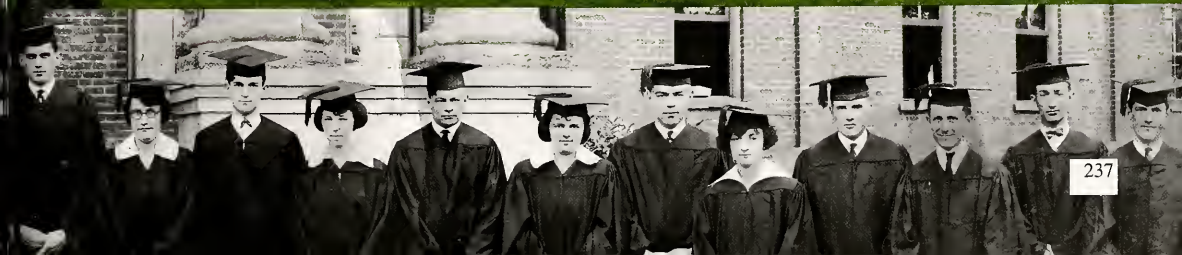

The Chrestonian-Eumenian Hall in 1909. This room was in Old Main, which burned to the ground in 1927. The Rhyne Building stands there now.

These pieces of dialogue are from an interview with a student from 1916, which Lenoir-Rhyne's Oral History class collected in 1977.

From the Editor

As the year closes, we are all looking forward to summer and all that the future brings. However, I hope that from time to time, we will look back and relive the delights that have been experienced at Lenoir-Rhyne College: homecomings, ballgames, favorite classes, and the special bonds we have all formed with wonderful people. We are only here for a very short time, and I hope that you have enjoyed your HACAWA, an account of the 2007-08 school year, and will continue to peruse its pages as the years roll by.

The HACAWA reflects the very hard work of an extremely small number of people. Taking into account our staff members' busy schedules and the fact that we have no photographers, the people that you see on this page have given their all to make this a great book. Through many, many late nights both together and alone, we have all united to produce a great book for the students at Lenoir-Rhyne.

Dr. Custer: You are so far from those inactive advisors that student groups often have. You so willingly took on this voluntary task on top of grading essay tests (hehe) and conducting your research. If it weren't for you, Lenoir-Rhyne wouldn't even have a yearbook, and all of us are extremely grateful to have you as an advisor in this program that we're building.

Christy: You have been absolutely invaluable to this staff. I always knew I could count on you to take initiative and accomplish things without even having to be told. You have been so dedicated to this book all year, and I'm sure the student body would join me in thanking you for your flyers!

Laura: Hey, hey, hey. Miss Literary Editor! Can you write another blurb? I certainly hope so, because you have a way of stating things different from any other! Your writing gave the book style, and you've been constantly invested in year-book. I always knew I could count on your physical pre-sence at events, too; you were always the first to volunteer to man a table!

Elycia: Thank you, thank you, thank you! You've been so conscientious, and I could always depend on you to have your pages done within a week of my assigning them. They look wonderful, too!

Erica: You had a BABY, and a week later, you were on the phone asking if you could do anything. That is dedication. I really appreciated all you did at such a challenging time in your life, and I can't wait until next year!

Mandy: As the only senior on the staff, you can always remember that you've helped to create and wonderful memoir for your class. Your pictures and layouts were awesome, and I wish that you had been here second semester!

Morgan: Thanks for stepping into an editorial position halfway through the year. It couldn't have been easy, but your willingness to take on such a large task was very impressive. Your photography skills are valuable, too.

Traci: I really admire how you joined second semester, with no yearbook experience, and plunged right in. What's more, any time we needed a laugh, we could definitely come to you! Keep up the good work, and it'll be great to have you on staff for the whole year.

Mary Ellen: I wish that you'd had time to be a full-fledged staff member, because your pages are wonderful! Thank you for everything you did.

Robby, Brandon, and Katie: Thanks a million for the Blakey information. That really took a lot of our shoulders! I really appreciated how conscientious you always were about that.

Thanks also to Phil Robinson, Margaret Allen, Leonard Geddes, and Christine Maack, who helped supply photos.

The 2008 HACAWA was published by Jostens Publishing Company in Winston-Salem, North Carolina. Jostens' Yearbook Avenue interface was used for layout. Bill Hall served as our publishing representative. Individual student, faculty, and staff photographs were taken by Carolina Photography. Phil Robinson of SportsFotos contributed many of the athletics photos, copyrighted 2007-2008. Other photography was done by Paul Custer, Margaret Allen, Kathryn Gaither, Amanda Culbreath, Elycia Zempel, and Leonard Geddes. Paul Custer designed the cover. The primary font used in this book was Helvetica.
